How to activate Or get the premium Serial Number 2018.Q: Jest, Enzyme, Element-ui: Test if not empty I'm using Jest with Enzyme and Element-ui. In the app, the value is null at first and it is updated later. I have a 'Select' component that has an 'onChange' handler. In the test I want to ensure that the handler is called when the input value has been updated, which it is. What would be the appropriate assertion? The docs Here's my code: Test File import React from 'react'; import { shallow } from 'enzyme'; import { configure, mount, shallowWrapper } from 'enzyme'; import { Select } from 'element-ui/packages/select'; import UserFormField from '../UserFormField'; configure({ stubs: true }); describe('Select', () => { it('should call change event on value changes', () => { let wrapper = shallowWrapper( console.log('works'));/> expect(wrapper.find('button').props().onChange).toBe('works') }) }) Component import React from 'react'; import { makeStyles, withStyles } from '@material-ui/core/styles'; import Select from
